

Douglas Not Candidate For Vice-President; Rice Suggests Gen. Marshall

By JACK BELL
Convention Hall, Philadelphia, July 12 (AP) — Justice William O. Douglas took himself out of the vice presidential picture today as the Democrats opened their convention, amid wrangling over nominating President Truman and over their platform.

While delegates were still straggling into this hall for the first session, party leaders announced that Douglas had given what they regarded as an "absolute refusal" to be considered for the No. 2 spot on the party's ticket.

John Redding, Democratic publicity chief, made the announcement. There had been reports earlier that Douglas had given what they regarded as an "absolute refusal" to be considered for the No. 2 spot on the party's ticket.

Rice Favors Marshall
With Douglas out of consideration, talk of vice presidential possibilities centered on Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., of Maryland, and Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

John S. Rice, of Gettysburg, chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation, and unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor two years ago, suggested that the party might turn to Secretary of State Marshall to help strengthen the ticket.

Truman's forces are in complete control of the convention and apparently able to write their own platform and name the vice presidential candidate as well as hand the ticket-topping nomination to the President.

But plenty of fireworks were in prospect. Die-hard critics of the President are determined he shall not have the nomination without a gesture of opposition on the convention floor.

Turn To Laney
Dixie rebels settled on Gov. Ben Laney of Arkansas as the man they will back. And Senator Claude Pepper of Florida declared himself a candidate.

At least part of Alabama's delegation was ready to walk out if Truman is nominated or if the platform doesn't please them. This group won control of the delegation in a pre-session caucus.

But California, where there was much anti-Truman sentiment last week, was lining up behind the President.

It voted 42 to 12 to support him on the first ballot.

While Laney and Barkley were getting most talk as vice presidential possibilities, Redding said he considers the race "wide open."

Pepper and Laney were entered as presidential candidates last night.

Southerners, making an admittedly hopeless fight in this case, lined up behind Laney. A committee named by a rebel caucus yesterday for that task called on advocates of states' rights to rally behind the Arkansas governor.

Pepper Enters Race
A few hours earlier, Senator Claude Pepper of Florida had made a belated and almost single-handed entry into the race against Mr. Truman. Pepper took over the physical properties—but few of the supporters of the boom for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The convention itself offered a day of speech-making as the main attraction in a hall where the Republicans last month picked Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Gov. Earl Warren of California for their ticket.

Lawrence said in a prepared address opening the meeting that Joseph Grundy, former head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers association, had dominated the Republican sessions.

Senator Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, welcoming the delegates, called in a manuscript for "a two-front war" in which he said the Democrats can win in November with President Truman.

He said the party would be "back at the Roosevelt-New Deal" stand under Mr. Truman, fighting "the reactionary, dominant isolationist right" on one hand and "the totalitarian Communist left" on the other.

McGrath Scores Congress
National Chairman J. Howard McGrath lashed out at what he called the record of "negativism, obstructionism and retrogression" rolled up by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress for nearly two years.

Finally, in their rush to adjourn ahead of last month's GOP convention, the Rhode Island senator added in his advance text, the lawmakers jammed through "legislation that will prove to be ill-timed, illogical, and utterly meaningless in the solution of our problems."

POLICE PROBE TWO CRASHES

An automobile owned by Lawrence Sites, Fairfield R. 2, and operated by William Oliver Sites, 18, of the same address, figured in a collision with a car owned and operated by Herman A. McIntyre, Gettysburg R. 2, at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night two miles east of Fairfield, according to state police of the Gettysburg sub-station, who investigated.

Police said Sites was driving out of a private driveway and drove into the path of the McIntyre car. Damage to the latter was estimated at $75, and to the Sites car, $50. No one was injured. Investigation is being continued.

An automobile owned by Marie C. Baker, Abbottstown R. 1, and driven by George Weaver, 24, of Hanover, left the highway three miles north of Hanover on the Cross Keys road at 8:55 o'clock Saturday night, and crashed into a telephone pole state police reported. Miss Baker was taken to the Hanover hospital suffering from shock and internal injuries. Damage to the car was estimated at $100 and to the pole, $50. Police will continue their investigation, they said.

Lewis Metz Faces Two More Charges
New charges which include pointing and firing a gun and malicious mischief were filed today against Lewis Metz, 52, of Orrtanna R. 1, arrested Friday night on a surety of the peace charge after allegedly discharging a shotgun at the home of Clyde Sloat, a neighbor.

The new charges were filed with Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore. Metz was given a hearing on the surety of the peace charge Saturday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Roger Myers, Fairfield, and held for court. He was committed to jail in default of $500 bail.

State police of the Gettysburg sub-station who arrested Metz Friday night, said the man had been drinking, and went to his home and aimed himself with a shotgun. He then went to the Sloat home, where, they said, he fired a shot through a door and another through a kitchen window. The latter blast damaged a radio, police said.

During the four week session, Chaplain Reynolds will receive intensive training for from seven to nine hours a day in the following subjects: Religious and spiritual factors in military morale; the chaplain as personal counselor; music for chaplains; duties of staff and administrative chaplains; and pulpit and microphone techniques. In addition, one hour a day is set aside for private and corporate prayer.

16 Parked Autos Are Given Yellow Tickets

Borough police Saturday night placed yellow tickets on 16 automobiles parked on Railroad street, at the orders, they said, of Burgess C. A. Heiges.

Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster explained the difference between red and yellow tickets by saying that the yellow are "inexcusable" and usually used for flagrant or repeated violations. They are payable only to the burgess, he said, with fines ranging from $5 to $20.

We have had many complaints relative to automobiles parking on this street," Harpster said. "The street is narrow, and motorists park their cars by a railroad siding, which is a state law violation."

Previous warnings have been ignored, Harpster added, so the yellow tags were used.

More than 100 attended.

There were softball games and contests during the afternoon, a picnic supper and dancing in the evening. Among the contest winners were the following:

Littlestown FOUNDER'S LIFE IS DRAMATIZED AT SCOUT CAMP

Camp Little Day Camp, Littlestown, concluded a successful week of Girl Scouting with an interesting program on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The program was presented out of doors and was attended by approximately 60 relatives and friends of the 35 girls who attended the camp. The scouts and the members of their staff marched from their headquarters to the open field, gathered in a semi-circle, and awaited the color guard composed of Marilyn Spangler, Patricia Long, and Virginia Koonz, and the program began with the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Elizabeth Anne Crouse extended a welcome to the assembly and served as announcer for the program. She introduced Mrs. Mervin Bream, day camp coordinator and Miss Marion Tupper, camp director, both of Gettysburg. They spoke briefly.

Promises Less Noise From Bus Terminal
Residents who live in the vicinity of the Greyhound bus terminal and the Greyhound post house were promised relief from excessive noise. Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster said today.

The police chief said he had contacted the Greyhound headquarters in Chicago, and that H. G. Anunson, engineer for the Post Exchange Houses, Inc. of Chicago arrived in Gettysburg today, and promised to remain until "everything is straightened out."

The alleged noises at the terminal and post house have been the subject of numerous complaints recently.

Gilbert Opening "Very Successful"
The formal opening of Gilbert's Food store on Franklin street proved "three times as successful" as had been expected. Lloyd Gilbert, owner of the store, reported today.

The store was constantly filled all day Friday and Saturday, he added, stating that the crowds "far exceeded my expectations."

One estimate placed the number of visitors to the new store on Friday and Saturday at "more than 4,000."

Rebel Yells Greet "Dixie"; Missouri Waltz Is Ignored

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, July 12 (AP) — The strains of the "Missouri Waltz" echoed over acres of empty seats today as the Democratic convention got off to a slow, late start.

The waltz, a salute to President Harry S. Truman, was played twice. First, it came from the great rolling tones of the pipe organ. Then the brass band, in its section just beneath the roof and at the far end of the hall, played it again.

There was no response either time, from the handful in the galleries or from delegates gossiping in the aisles.

But the bandleader, with a sure instinct for audience reactions, swung into "Dixie." He got his reaction. Rebel yells rang through the auditorium, and southern delegates brought the first note of enthusiasm to the convention since people began gathering in Philadelphia, three and four days ago.

At 11 o'clock (EST), a half hour after the scheduled starting time, the delegations still had not been seated and the public galleries were less than one-fifth filled.

But if the convention itself suffered by contrast to the Republican conclave two weeks earlier, Convention hall did not.

It had more and better decorations, in the form of state banners; hung from the balconies.

The white field of Illinois was next to the old Confederate-esechutcheon of Mississippi—a red, white and blue device with the stars of the Southern states forming an X in one corner. The yellow diamond of Delaware hung next to the heraldic shield of Pennsylvania.

A green baize rug covered the speaker's platform which had been bare boards during the recent Republican tenure of this hall. Many of the clattering folding chairs were gone, replaced by regular chairs.

Countian Says Three Women Flim-Flammed Him Of $500

A blonde and two brunettes, described as being in their 20's, worked the old handkerchief game on an Adams county resident Saturday afternoon and got away with between $500 and $600, according to state police of the Gettysburg sub-station, who are continuing their search for the three women today.

The victim, police said, was Washington Wolf, 79, of Abbottstown R. 1.

According to the story told to the police, the three women, driving a black coupe, stopped at Wolf's home about 2 p. m. and told him they were "working for the Lord," and would "get rid of his troubles and drive his enemies away."

The catch was that evil had to be destroyed with money, and according to state police, Wolf produced between $500 and $600 which he Centenary Methodist church, the Rev. Grant E. Hooper pastor, was crowded Sunday when special services of re-dedication were held for the sanctuary and Sunday school room which were entirely redecorated at a cost of $1,900. The chancel was decorated with baskets of gladioli and fern, which were placed there through the courtesy of W. E. Koons, florist. The official board dedicated the white basket which stood to the right of the pulpit to the memory of deceased members of Centenary church and the basket to the left of the pulpit to the honor of the living members.

As a result of the offering and gifts received on Sunday, the indebtedness incurred in these repairs was reduced to approximately $300.

County's First Polio Cases Are Reported

Shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon Dr. C. G. Crist, county medical officer, reported the second case of infantile paralysis in Adams county.

Donald Houser, 11, New Oxford, R. D. area was stricken and his ailment was diagnosed by Dr. Wilbur Miller, New Oxford, as polio. Both of the youth's legs are paralyzed. Efforts are being made to remove the youngster to Harrisburg today.

Doctor Crist appealed to parents to see their family physician as soon as their children show any signs of illness in order to prevent a further spread of the disease.

Adams county's first infantile paralysis case in 1948 was placed under quarantine Sunday in Reading township.

Bernard W. Yingling, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Yingling, is the victim. Both legs are completely paralyzed, according to his physician, Dr. Allen W. Kelley, East Berlin.

The East Berlin high school boy was taken ill last Tuesday but the doctor did not see him until Friday when the paralysis had set in and the diagnosis was made.

William I. Shields, state sanitarian for Adams county, was notified and placed a 14-day quarantine Sunday. It dates from last Tuesday, the day of the onset of the disease.

Bernard is the eldest of four children in the Yingling family. Although plans were started to take the boy to a Harrisburg hospital, Dr. Kelley said this afternoon the family now is inclined to keep the boy at home. He is being given penicillin and Kenney hot packs are being applied.

That number have been requested so far through the county Friendly Town Committee. Mrs. J. Walter Coleman, Emmitsburg road, chairman of the group, said today.

In addition, persons who may wish to entertain underprivileged New York youngsters for two weeks starting July 23 can act as hosts—if they call Mrs. Coleman prior to 9 o'clock this evening.

FATHER AND SON HELD FOR COURT ON TWO COUNTS

An 81-year-old Adams county man and his 52-year-old son were held for the grand jury by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore this morning following hearings at which the younger man was charged with drunken driving, his father with assault and battery and both with resisting arrest.

Vernon Baker, 52, of Gettysburg R. 1, furnished $500 bail for court on the drunken driving charge, and $1,000 bail for resisting arrest. He was also convicted by Squire Basehore on a disorderly conduct charge, and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

His father, Charles L. Baker, 81, of Gettysburg R. 1, furnished $1,000 bail each on charges of resisting arrest and assault and battery. They were represented at the hearing by Attorney Edward B. Bullett.

Trooper Testifies
State Policeman Howard Mackert testified that he was driving south on the Emmitsburg road about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon when he noticed a car approaching which he said was driving partly on and partly off the highway, 500 feet north of the Panorama inn. Vernon Baker was driving, he testified. He drove on to the inn, turned around and caught up with the automobile, and claimed that Vernon Baker changed places behind the wheel with Paul T. Moritz, Gettysburg R. 2.

Baker, he said, refused to get out of the car, and picked up a large pair of pliers and attempted to strike him. He took the pliers from him. When Mackert attempted to pull Baker from the car, the latter's father hung on to his son, and struck Mackert on the side of the face with his fist, the officer charged.

Later both father and son agreed to accompany Mackert to Gettysburg where they were placed in jail until they furnished bail. No charges were placed against either Moritz or William Eskridge, Gettysburg R. 1, who also were in the car.

DR. LEVI GILBERT QUILTS AS PREXY

Shippensburg, Pa., July 12 (AP) — Friction in the administration of Shippensburg State Teachers' college culminated today in the resignation of President Levi Gilbert.

"It has been no secret that relations between some faculty members and the administration have not been too harmonious," said Dr. R. G. Mowrey, chairman of the college's board of trustees and Franklin county superintendent of schools.

Dr. Mowrey said there was no disputation to the board, said his action was a result of what he termed "the local administrative situation" and ill health. He did not elaborate any further.

Dr. Mowrey said there was no dispute between Dr. Gilbert and the board.

There were differences, however, in the Athletic department, he explained. These, Dr. Mowrey added, "have created some unpleasantness and unfavorable publicity."

Dr. Gilbert is an Altoona native and was superintendent of schools there. He came to Shippensburg after his discharge from the Army in November, 1945. He formerly taught school in Biglerville.

The president will continue in office until Governor James H. Duff names a successor, said Dr. Mowrey.

Final Call for Roastin' Ears

Accurate weather records covering several decades indicate that the first killing frost of fall in this latitude and at the average elevation of this community will occur October 20. Of course, an unseasonal freeze may arrive earlier; the date may be postponed later. But accepting October 20 as the safe limit of gardening computations, the grower may use some arithmetic on the subject of sweet corn. From 85 to 95 days are required for the fastest growing varieties to reach edible size from date of planting, even with soil conditions and cultural practices contributing to the absence of undue delay in plant growth. Therefore, if 90 days, for safety, is used for maturing edible ears, planting must be done not later than July 20 to allow a satisfactory harvest period.

Tuesday's Games
Littlestown at Gettysburg.
McSherrystown at Orrtanna.
York Springs at Emmitsburg.
Fairfield at Hanover.

Unable to gather enough players together to take a team to York Springs, the Gettysburg Legion team was forced to forfeit an Adams county baseball league game to York Springs on Saturday afternoon.

Gettysburg is scheduled to meet Littlestown on the high school field Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock. The locals will also play a postponed tilt at Orrtanna Thursday evening at 6:15 o'clock.

Orrtanna took a firm grip on first place by blanking Hanover 6-0 on the latter's field. Ronnie Baltzley twirled five-hit ball to record his second straight shutout victory. He fanned 10 and walked but two. The victors tabbed two runs in the third on an error, a fielder's choice, H. Deardoff's triple and his steal of home on an attempted squeeze play.

Two more runs came in the fourth on singles by K. Singley, K. Deardoff, B. Cease and I. Herring. The final pair of runs came in the seventh on a single by H. Deardoff, sacrifice by J. Wetzel, single by R. Baltzley and double by K. Singley. H. Deardoff paced Orrtanna's attack with a single, two doubles and a triple. Rohrbaugh poled two singles for Hanover.

New Oxford Wins 2
New Oxford moved into second place, displacing Hanover, by winning a pair of games over the weekend. On Saturday they won 2-0 over Fairfield on the latter's field and edged Bendersville 5-3 Sunday at Bendersville in a game moved up from Tuesday's schedule.

Saturday's tilt resulted in a beautiful pitchers' duel between C. Bevenour and Sites. New Oxford tabbed single runs in the fourth and fifth innings. The victors collected six hits while Fairfield secured four, two each by Sease and Scott.

Snyder pitched for New Oxford on Sunday with N. Slaybaugh and F. Slaybaugh forming the Bendersville battery.

On Saturday Bendersville outslugged Emmitsburg to gain a 12-8 victory at Bendersville. Walters and Baumgardner divided the pitching for Bendersville.

McSherrystown picked up considerable ground in its drive for fourth place by upsetting Littlestown 9-7 at Littlestown.

Horn Sets Record At Williams Grove

Williams Grove, Pa., July 12 (AP)—Ted Horn, Paterson, N. J., rested on the laurels today of a new track record set in the 50-lap AAA big car championship race on the Williams Grove speedway.

Horn's time for the long grind yesterday was 23:02.12, a full 10 seconds less than his previous mark.

The Paterson speedster finished a half lap ahead of Mark Light, Lebanon. Others who finished were Freddie Carpenter, Albany, N. Y., third; Jackie Holmes, Indianapolis, fourth; Hank Rodgers, Trenton, N. J., fifth; Tommy Mattson, Wilmington, Del., sixth, and Lucky Lux, Lebanon, seventh.

Tommy Hinnshitz, Reading, was forced to drop out on the 27th lap. His automobile's rear end gave out.

ROUGH GOING FOR ALL-STAR GAME

By JOE REICHLER
St. Louis, July 12 (AP)—The fate of the major league all-star classic hung in the balance today.

Incensed over the refusal of Bobby Feller and Marty Marion to play in the 15th annual all-star game here tomorrow and the apparent apathy of others, big league club owners were preparing for a showdown with the players.

From a reliable source it was learned that the moguls, backed by Presidents Ford Frick of the National league and Will Harridge of the American, were ready to issue the following ultimatum to the players: "Either you live up to your moral obligations and play when called upon or let's drop the whole thing."

It was pointed out that each of the eight pitchers comprising the American league staff worked either Saturday or Sunday. Of the National league's six pitchers, only Johnny Schmitz worked over the weekend.

Feller bowed out because he said it would interrupt his regular pitching rotation for Cleveland. St. Louis' Marion, who at times has been rested because of an ailing back, begged off because he claimed he was not in the best of shape. Yet he has not missed a game of late. He was suspicious in yesterday's Cards-Reds game with several diving stops of ground balls.

In addition to Feller and Marion, who incidentally have been replaced, it was doubtful whether Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Red Schoendienst and George Kell would be fit to play. Each has been sidelined by an injury.

Interstate League

(By The Associated Press)
The Allentown Cardinals took both ends of a twin bill from the York White Roses yesterday, 4-2 and 2-1, to gain a half game on the pace-setting Wilmington Blue Rocks in the Interstate league.

Wilmington, meanwhile, could do no better than split with the Sunbury Reds, taking the opener 8-4 but dropping the nightcap 4-3.

The second-place Trenton Giants also divided in their twin bill with the Harrisburg Senators. Trenton captured the nightcap 6-3 after Harrisburg had taken the opener 4-1.

The Lancaster Red Roses took the first game of another doubleheader, 14-5, from the Hagerstown Owls, and the Owls won the afterpiece, 8-2.

Today's schedule: Harrisburg at Trenton; Hagerstown at Lancaster; York at Allentown, and Sunbury at Wilmington.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)
The Scranton Miners enjoyed a two-game lead over the second-place Utica Blue Sox today in the tight battle for the Eastern Baseball league leadership.

The Miners strengthened their hold Sunday by copping a doubleheader from the Elmira Pioneers, 10-2 and 5-2.

Meanwhile, the Blue Sox and Hartford Chiefs split a twin bill at Utica. The Sox won the opener, 8-5, and the Chiefs retaliated with a 5-3 victory in the nightcap. The Albany Senators trounced the Binghamton Triplets, 9-3, and the Williamsport Tigers edged the Wilkes-Barre Barons, 7-6, in a 10-inning contest.

Yesterdays Stars

(By The Associated Press)
Pitching: Ken Raffensberger, Reds—Pitched his second one-hit shut out triumph of the year, a 1-0 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals. He walked only two batters. His previous one-hit shut was at the expense of the Cards on May 31.

Batting: Andy Paiko, Cubs—Clouted his 13th homer of the season to provide Chicago with a 1-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

TOP SKEET SHOOTER

Elensburg, Pa., July 12 (AP)—John H. Gallatly of Pittsburgh, took top honors in the annual championship of the Pennsylvania Skeet Shooting Association tournament by compiling a perfect 100 in the 12-gauge competition. The Utilities club of Lancaster, won the team crown with a 490x500 score.

Rapping out a total of 23 hits, the Greenmount baseball team handed Gettysburg a severe 27-3 trouncing in a South Penn league game played Sunday afternoon on Quarry field.

G. Fair and J. Fische each pounded out five hits for Greenmount, the former also collecting a homerun. Fisher collected three of Gettysburg's eight safeties.

In the best game of the day Cashtown nosed out Heidersburg 2-1 at Cashtown. Cashtown put over its runs in the last of the ninth inning.

Heidersburg tabbed a run in the fifth on a single by Ecker, an infield out by Spertzel and a single by Asper. Manager Keller's team broke its eight innings of goose eggs in the final frame to nab the decision when W. Bucher led off with a hit to deep shortstop. D. Kuhn moved him to second on a bunt. Bucher scored when the Heidersburg catcher threw wild to third as the former stole third. R. Kump walked and stole second. Jay F. Kump popped to Spertzel, Jay Hershey singled to left field, R. Kump romping home with the winning tally.

Protest Game
Heidersburg announced the game was being played under protest over the eligibility of a Cashtown player. Barlow handed Brushtown an 11-4 defeat at Barlow. The winners collected 13 safeties, four of which went to John Brennan including a homerun. Bob Kriehien rapped out a homerun for Brushtown.

Barlow will play Emmitsburg, of the Penn-Maryland league, in an exhibition game at Emmitsburg Thursday evening at 6:15 o'clock.

Scoring nine runs in the second inning, Granite handed Bonneauville a 9-3 defeat at Granite. Clapper paced the victors with three hits while Shanebrook collected two of Bonneauville's seven safeties. Seven errors by Bonneauville played a big role in the final score.

The Conewago VFW outfit retained its two-game lead for first place by handing Wenksville a 15-2 drubbing at Wenksville.

SCOUT CAMP CALLED FINEST

The York-Adams area Boy Scout camp near Dillsburg was termed "the finest Scout camp in the east" Sunday afternoon by Guy P. Miller, assistant director of camping for the National Boy Scout organization.

Miller was the principal speaker at a dedicatory program held on the playground at the campsite. He was introduced by Mahlon Haines, of York.

With several hundred scouts and parents present, the program opened with the sounding of "To the Colors" by Bugler Glenn Baughman, of Scout Troop 67. Following the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Spring Garden Brass Quartet, invocations were pronounced by the Rev. Fr. Anthony J. McGinley, McSherrystown, and the Rev. Robert M. Hunt, pastor of the local Presbyterian church.

The welcoming address was given by E. H. Blettnier, president of the York-Adams area, and a history of the camp was given by Scout Commissioner Horace G. Forts. Clarence F. Uffler, regional executive of Scout Region III, also spoke briefly. In his talk Scout Executive Miller urged the area to "keep this camp as it is, in a primitive state, for only through such camps as this can scouts be taught how to camp."

The program concluded with benediction by the Rev. C. B. Crawford.

DDT Helps To Protect Elms

The fight to save our elm trees from extinction by the Dutch elm disease has been favorably aided by DDT. Of course, this insecticide does not solve the problem; it merely offers some more stray threads of hope that eventually the disease will be conquered through extermination of the insects which transfer the organisms from stricken to healthy trees. The role of DDT is worth consideration by every elm owner.

The Dutch elm disease is carried from one tree to another by one of both species of small beetles which feed in the bark and cambium layer. Quite early in the spring, perhaps before elm trees come into leaf, the beetles emerge and fly to nearby elms. Most of the dangerous feeding by which the disease is transmitted occurs on the small twigs, largely where the twig joins the limb or branch.

The major idea in using DDT is to coat the elm bark just before the trees come into foliage. Coming into contact with the poison before they begin feeding, bark beetles apparently are killed or are rendered incapable of feeding. Timely interest in this process of combat arises from the fact that experiments indicate that another application of DDT in early July is needed to continue the effectiveness.

A 2 per cent DDT emulsion should be applied before the elms come into foliage. The early July application should consist of a 1 per cent emulsion. In both applications the sole purpose is to coat the bark so beetles will encounter the residue before they begin feeding. There is no benefit at all in coating the foliage, except wherein minor insects may be controlled.

The individual elm owner faces the main problem in contriving means to reach all parts of the tree, especially if the specimen is large. Where custom sprayers are employed to do the work, their equipment is usually sufficient to reach all parts of even the highest trees. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the necessity of coating all bark surfaces. This is better impressed on the owner by recalling the oft-repeated advice that but a few beetles from an infected tree need to feed on a healthy tree to introduce the fatal disease.

The only benefits accruing from sprays on trees already affected by the disease is to reduce the number of emerging beetles. Neighbors should discuss over and over the basic principles of elm protection, of which one major rule predominates—keep beetles from diseased trees from feeding on trees not yet infected.

It is not believed that bark beetles travel far from their places of emergence from the bark of diseased trees. Therefore, precautions can be effectively localized. Dead limbs or entire dead trees affected with Dutch elm disease should be promptly destroyed or at least debarked. If all the bark of such woods is removed and burned, little further danger is likely. There are two or three excellent spray coatings to use on dead elm timber to abate the danger of emerging beetles.

Owners of valuable elm trees in villages or towns, as well as farm owners of these trees, may greatly reduce the costs of this July DDT application by joining together and employing a custom spraying concern to do their work. The editor will be glad to answer all questions arising from this important problem.

Admitting the illegality of the parking, Gitt said, however, that he resented what he termed Feiser's "abusive language and rough handling."

The policeman denied Gitt's statements. The publisher pleaded innocent to the disorderly conduct charge at a hearing Saturday before Alderman Edward L. Showalter.

The score stood at 5 to 7 at the end of the first inning. By the time the seventh inning had been reached everyone had lost count of the runs.

The control tower at Teterboro airport, however, said it had no information about "any B-17 bomber." At Harrison, N. NEXT MOVE IN HOLY LAND WAR IS UP TO U.N.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall says the official determination of who is to blame for the resumption of hostilities in the Holy Land will have to be made by the Security Council of the United Nations, although he points out that news dispatches report the Arabs took the initiative.

Who are we to decline to follow such a sage decision? Let the council name the culprit. However, one does venture the suggestion that the council consult its occultist to see whether it has a beam in its own eye before trying to pull the mote out of the other fellow's eye.

Opportunity Knocks Again
The peace organization was created, with hopeful prayers, to deal with just such ruptures of the peace. Thus far about the only thing it has sent echoing down the halls of time is the Russian "no." However, it is untrue that opportunity never knocks twice on the same door, and the UN now has a chance to justify the hopes of peace-minded folk by taking quick and firm action in the Palestine imbroglio.

Now your correspondent doesn't overlook the ramifications of the Arab-Jewish quarrel, or the difficulties of dealing with them. It truly is a world problem. Still there are a lot of us old-timers who feel keenly on the subject of UN obligations. I was in at the glorious birth of the late lamented League of Nations at Versailles—watched it stub its infant toes and finally come a cropper because of hesitation and power politics—saw it die in its marble palace on the shore of Lake Geneva.

The alternative to UN action, as this column remarked yesterday, is to take off the wraps and let the Arabs and the Jews fight it out to a finish. The idea of settling the argument with the sword might have been worth consideration a few generations ago, but it shouldn't be countenanced now. The consensus of many observers is that the Security Council should act immediately and firmly.

Favor Sanctions
Secretary Marshall declares flatly that American policy aims at stopping the fighting entirely and in trying to have the Jewish and Arab belligerents reach an agreement. At the same time the United States has taken the lead in pushing for strong action by the Security Council, even the application of sanctions against the aggressors.

Britain has been urging the Arabs to reconsider their refusal to extend the truce, and I understand she still has hopes that they may comply. However, she is encountering in the various Arab countries a sort of fatalistic attitude—the idea of dying with their boots on and letting matters run their course. It isn't an easy situation to handle.

Still, I am told by a reliable source that if worst comes to worst, and the Security Council should hold the Arabs guilty of aggression, then Britain will stand with the United States in imposing sanctions—economic, political or even military.

FOUNDER'S LIFE

Harold Johnson, Gettysburg, president of the Adams County Girl Scout Council, who congratulated the scouts and their leaders on the work accomplished during the camp. A medley of Girl Scout songs including "Make New Friends," "Donkey Song," and "Kokuburra" was sung by the Brownies. A dance "Hey-Little Lasse," was followed by a playlet by the Brownies.

Susan Baumgardner was the story teller and the following cast acted out the story in pantomime: Mary, Lorraine Snyder; Tommy, Betty Reaver; Father, Paye Fissel; mother, Elizabeth Thomas and Owl, Suzanne Long.

Present Dances

A Maypole dance was presented by a group dressed in crepe paper costumes of various pastel shades. The Brownies entertained with the dances "Pop Goes the Weasel" and "Skip to My Lou." The members of the Intermediate group presented a dramatization of a scene from the life of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting. The cast included Marilyn Spangler, Celene Pfaff, Daris Lemmon, Virginia Kowitz, Dawn Pettyjohn, Charolyn Graft, Nadine Stites, Alvina Graft, Mary Lou King and Patricia Long, who characterized Juliette Low. Following the song "Jogging Along" by a group of intermediates, the color guard advanced and the entire group, again assembled in a semi-circle, sang taps.

The camp was held from Tuesday to Saturday in the grove adjoining St. John's Lutheran church, near town. A display of the articles which the scouts made during the camping period was viewed by those attending the program and included such articles as belts and headbands, made of felt; broilers, made of coat hangers; "sit upons," made of oil cloth; plaster of paris wall plaques and spatter print leaves. Nature hikes were enjoyed and on Friday the Brownies cooked and served a complete meal, with the intermediates doing likewise on Saturday. Swimming, dramatics and arts and crafts were also included on the program.

Littlestown

Littlestown.—A basket of lilies and gladioli were placed in the chancel of Christ Reformed church on Sunday morning in memory of Harry A. Strine, Sr. by his wife and family. RHUBARB DEMANDS SPECIAL CARE

The commercial rhubarb grower follows a careful calendar of plant management around the year with special emphasis on early July practices. He knows from long experience that the next year's crop is largely dependent on how he cares for the clumps from now until winter.

First in these summer practices is this inviolate rule—Do not cut or harvest stalks after the first week in July. Reasons for this prohibition are simple but very important. Like most other plants which develop tubers, bulbs or matted root systems, such as peonies, Dutch bulbs, most lilies and similar plants, rhubarb stores strength during late summer and early fall for the following season's growth. This strength is manufactured in the leaves and carried to the roots. Harvesting long after July 1 or failure to feed rhubarb clumps liberally after the cutting season ends means reduced clump vigor the next spring.

This additional feeding should take the form of well rotted manure and commercial fertilizers applied in early July around each clump. The fertilizer should approximate a 6-8-8 strength and should be worked lightly into the surrounding soil in a broad band, not up near the crown. On this matter of post-harvest feeding growers may remember that it is almost impossible to over-feed rhubarb. It is the garden glutton when it comes to plant foods.

Next, and for the same reason as already cited for cessation of cutting in early July, rhubarb should not be allowed to develop seed stalks. Like seed bearing by almost all other plants, seed takes an undue amount of nourishment away from the roots and causes the plant to mature extra early. Merely cut out seed stalks whenever they appear. There can be no compromise with this rule.

One "don't" appears prominently in rhubarb advice—Don't apply lime or wood ashes in the preparation or feeding program. This plant prefers a slightly acid or neutral soil reaction. Either lime or wood ashes proves unfriendly.

Before winter the clumps may be mulched quite liberally with straw manure, although it is not advisable to heap on so much mulch as to smother or otherwise interfere with the crown.

Side dressings with nitrate of soda after growth starts in the spring will greatly stimulate growth, also some finely pulverized manure may be spaded into the surrounding soil

Garden Activities For Middle July

There is still time to sow quick-growing annuals for bloom when cool autumn weather arrives.

Watch evergreens for attacks of red spider, and use a contact spray for control.

Iris may be divided or moved any time during the two-month period after blooming. Bearded iris should be separated after three or four years.

Sprays should not be applied in the evening, as they encourage mildew.

Now is the time to make another planting of green snap beans. Snap beans and Chinese cabbage may be sown, but celery, broccoli and cauliflower need a longer time to mature, and therefore plants of these vegetables should be used to get a good fall crop.

the stands. There will be a special program of entertainment each night. Tonight the Nemo Range Riders, radio entertainers, will furnish the entertainment.

at the same time.

Repeating these year-around feeding instructions—Feed clumps with well rotted manure and 6-8-8 fertilizer when cutting ceases in early July. Mulch the clumps with straw manure in late fall or early winter. Side dress the clumps with nitrate of soda in early spring and at the same time spade well rotted and finely pulverized manure lightly into the surrounding soil. The nitrogenous feeding may be repeated after leaves are well open. Winter mulching should not interfere with the clumps and roots freezing over winter. This freezing is a necessary step in rhubarb growth—the explanation why this crop is not grown in the South.

Planting is done in early March, with soil preparation for this purpose completed before winter. Nursery roots or divisions from old clumps are recommended. All questions on this crop gladly answered by the editor. Write him.

NOW IS TIME TO PLANT IRIS

It is justly warrants its popular name of the rainbow flower. Every possible color is present in these beautiful and easy-to-grow plants. By choosing types from the different groups, one can have blossoms from spring to fall, and sizes ranging from the dwarf, rock garden favorites to the tall and flat-topped Japanese types.

One of the largest groups, beloved by all gardeners, is that called the bearded group. This name comes from the beard or fuzz noted on the three lower petals, or falls.

The best time to plant bearded iris or divide old plantings is after blooming is finished—now through the next few weeks. For vigorous plants and a neat border, all old iris blooms should have been cut off with sharp scissors or a clean, sharp knife as soon as the blooms were finished. While going over the plants watch for signs of disease and for the borer. After such a wet season as June that is especially important, although iris are comparatively free of troubles.

Plants Not Expensive
Bearded iris are easy to grow, requiring less care than many others and rewarding the gardener with beautiful color combinations. Naturally, as with most plants, the use of good garden sense and thoughtful care will give larger and lovelier flowers and healthy, attractive sword-like foliage.

Many people have the idea that iris are expensive. This is not true except in the newest introductions and where the available stock is limited. A new variety may start out at $15 or more the first year, it appears, but within a few years, as the stock grows more plentiful, the price comes down.

Many unusual varieties, still new to hundreds of gardeners, and out only six or seven years, may be had for a little over a dollar. Still older varieties, the colors of which are truly gorgeous and of great range, may be had for as little as 25 or 35 cents each.

A beginner unfamiliar with many of the colors will get a fine choice by purchasing a collection from one of the dealers specializing in iris. Many of the catalogues, especially those from noted Western dealers, contended Holley was drunk on the night of the shooting and did not mean to kill the woman.

Attorney James C. Welch said Holley heard someone in the taproom say "let's get that nigger," and that he then started shooting. "He was scared to death," Welch added.

A handful of observers witnessed the execution at 12:31 a. m. EST. None of Holley's relatives appeared and Deputy Warden C. C. Rhoads said the man would be buried in a potter's field grave near the prison if the body is unclaimed.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Peace has been officially proclaimed by the President.

Anniversary Celebration: A number of citizens of Gettysburg, having made arrangements to celebrate the anniversary of our National Independence in the old-fashioned way, the party repaired to "Cobean's Spring" on Marsh Creek, at 8 A. M., where they found everything tastefully arranged for their reception by our recent worthy fellow-citizen, Colonel Robert Cobean. The forenoon having been occupied in various diversions, at 2 o'clock the company organized by appointing John B. McPherson, Esq., President; John Butt and Danl. Polley, Vice Presidents; and B. Riley and Thos. Martin, Secretaries. The Declaration of Independence, with the names of the signers having been read by William B. McClellan, Esq., the party sat down to a substantial repast, to which the company did complete justice.

After the cloth had been removed regular toasts were read by D. M. Smyser, Esq., and drunk with much applause. Volunteer toasts were given by Robert Cobean, J. G. Reed, James Gettys, Wm. B. McClellan, Walter S. Swan, Charles Horner, H. G. Schreiner, D. M. Smyser, Jas. Bowen, George Little, N. Weaver, John Butt, Robert Horner, Thomas Martin, Daniel Polley, J. O. Cooper, Keller Kurtz, George Swope and William King. The company returned home about five o'clock.

Washington National Monument: The Corner Stone of the Washington Monument was laid at Washington City, on Thursday the 4th, with most imposing ceremonies. It is estimated that no less than 40,000 people were present. Gen. Quitman had chief command of the military. Hon. Mr. Winthrop, Speaker of the House of Representatives, delivered an oration. B. B. French, Esq., Grand Master of Masons in the District, made an Address, and laid the Corner Stone according to Masonic Ceremonies. The Apron he wore was the same one worn by the Father of his Country when he filled the office of the Grand Master of Alexandria Lodge and was worked by the lady of General Lafayette.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
The Town Council are refitting the pavement in centre square.

Medical Society: An adjourned meeting of the Physicians of this county was held in the Arbitration Room of the Court-house on Monday a week and a permanent organization effected by the election of the following officers: President, Dr. Robert Horner; Vice President, Dr. H. S. Huber; Recording Secretary, Dr. R. B. Elderidge; Corresponding Secretary, Dr. Wm. J. McClure; Treasurer, Dr. J. W. C. O'Neal. The attendance and proceedings were very satisfactory to all present.

Installation Services: On Sunday morning, Rev. G. W. Enders was formally installed as Pastor of St. James Church in this place, in the presence of a large congregation. Rev. Dr. Baum, of York, delivered the charge to the pastor, and conducted the installation services. Rev. Mr. Lake, of New Chester, delivering the charge to the congregation. At night Dr. Baum again occupied the pulpit.

Married: Bishop-Reaves.—On the ADD-OUT OF PAST JULY 12 1st inst., in this place, by Rev. W. R. H. Deatrich, Mr. James O. Bishop to Miss Sarah Jane Reaves, both of near Fairfield.

The Fourth in Gettysburg: On Friday Gettysburg was the centre of more than unusual attraction for the 4th of July. Between the Tournament and Van Amburgh's Great Show, our streets presented a lively appearance, notwithstanding the intense heat.

At an early hour carriages and vehicles began to pour into town and by half past ten when the train of excursionists from Frederick, Littlestown and Hanover reached town.

Today's Talk

MASTER OF THE UNEXPECTED

All through life we are periodically being challenged and it is up to our intellectual and physical forces to be prepared to meet each emergency with calmness and decision. Many years ago I lived near the great laboratory of Thomas A. Edison in New Jersey. One day it caught fire and burned to the ground. I drove to it and watched the tragic blaze. I inquired about the noted Wizard and was told that he was in an office nearby planning out the rebuilding of the place. He was master of the unexpected.

At sea and in battle the unexpected is a common occurrence, where leaders are trained to meet it. In everyday life, however, there are all too many who are not prepared to meet the unexpected—great grief, sudden failure, or even good fortune. Not long ago the newspapers reported the winning of a large sum of money by a woman, from a foreign lottery ticket—and she fainted, or had a heart attack!

I recently read of an author of whom it was said that he was a master of the unexpected, for the extent of his knowledge seemed almost unbelievable. His variety of information constantly astounded those who sat before him and listened. He seemed able to answer all inquiries.

We never know in advance what each one of our days is to bring forth, but we can enter each one with confidence if we will ourselves to face every emergency with courage, keep faith with ourselves, and refuse to allow bad news or a disappointment to get us down. It is possible for any of us to be the master of the unexpected if we have schooled ourselves to be master of our own self.

People who fear fear usually run into plenty of it, and then have no idea as to how to handle it! The United States has just issued a postage stamp commemorating the tragic death of four Chaplains—one Catholic, one Jew, and two Protestants. Their ship was torpedoed one dark February night in 1943. These Chaplains gave their life-jackets to men without them, calmed those in panic, and helped those "frozen" on the rail to life-boats. These heroes were masters of the unexpected.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "On Brooding"

The dreams come in,
Dreams of the triumph and

Only a baby that's tucked away

But following on with the first glad day
The dreams appear.

For those who stand at the cradle's side
The small hands hold
Days of glory and love and pride
The years unfold.

Far off as yet are the cap and gown
The child may wear;
Far off are fortune and fair renown,
But the dreams are there.

the crowd of visitors became so great as to tax to their utmost the capacity of our hotels to accommodate them.

Van Amburgh's menagerie gave three exhibitions at 10 A. M., 2 and 7 P. M., attracting large crowds. The Tournament on the Fair Grounds, gotten up by our energetic townsman, Mr. John M. Warner, opened at 1 P. M., and also drew a large crowd. Nine Knights, attired in full costumes, entered the lists, viz: Knight of Scotland, David Ziegler, Gettysburg; Knight of Emmitsburg, J. Newcomer, Emmitsburg; Knight of Cicely, Charles Horner, Gettysburg; Knight of Maryland, J. P. Miller, Rocky Ridge, Md.; Knight of Carroll, Samuel Rinebold, Taneytown; Knight of Carroll's Tract, A. S. Muselman, Fairfield; Knight of Ivanhoe, Clinton Spangler, Gettysburg; Knight of Conowago, Henry J. Lilly, Lilly's Mill, Adams county; Knight of the Black Steed, George Motter, of Taneytown, Md.

The distance to be run was 100 yards in ten seconds. Each knight was to have five trials. The judges were Messrs J. C. Neely, A. J. Cover and S. R. Russell.

The riding was admitted to be very fine all around. The lists resulted in placing Knights in the following order—1. Motter, 2. Lilly, 3d. Rinebold; 4. Spangler. The victors repaired to the stand which had been erected close by, handsomely decorated with flags, and covered so as to protect the occupants from the sun's rays. Miss Ruth Ziegler, of Gettysburg, was crowned queen; Miss Mary Stahl was selected as 1st maid of honor; Miss Kate Hance as 2nd, and Miss Emma Young as 3d. Dem. Convention

CONVENTION IS DREARY AFFAIR SAYS OBSERVER

By JAMES MARLOW

Philadelphia, July 12 (AP)—The Democratic convention to pick a Presidential candidate is a dreary affair.

Nobody here seriously doubts that President Truman is a cinch to get the nomination. With that apparently so cut and dried, half the steam is out of the convention.

Three weeks ago the Republicans drenched this city with enthusiasm while they still were in the process of picking one of a number of candidates.

They whooped and hollered and made deals and they jammed the hotel lobbies. The Democrats seem almost lonely by comparison.

True, Senator Claude Pepper, Florida Democrat, threw his hat into the ring last night and jumped in after it.

True, too, that a flock of southern delegates were getting ready to put up Gov. Ben T. Laney of Arkansas as their own candidate to oppose Mr. Truman.

Cool To Pepper
But Pepper's sudden announcement that he was seeking the Presidential nomination left this city and the delegates pretty cold.

And the other southerners—burned up by Mr. Truman's civil rights program—had been talking for quite a while of doing what they did. So it was no great surprise.

Already it seems to me, politicians in Mr. Truman's own party have done him terrific damage before the Presidential campaign gets under way.

In the past week some of the top Democrats talked of nominating Gen. Ike Eisenhower—until Eisenhower said "no, thanks."

Bosses of some of the biggest political machines in the United States—like ex-Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City—were behind the draft-Eisenhower boom.

Poses New Question
This now becomes an interesting question:

How are those political leaders, who were all for Eisenhower, going to do an about-face with the voters in their areas and start bleeding for Truman?

Mr. Truman can understand this. He got his political start from one of the most successful machines in the United States: Boss Pendergast's in Kansas City.

So it must seem ominous to him, knowing how much close political cooperation means among big city politicians, to see such people as Hague turn against him and then do a flip-flop back again.

Mr. Truman says he feels very chipper about his chances for reelection. If the delegates here think they're backing a winner, they're pretty quiet about it.

This is not intended as a particularly gloomy note about the Democrats and their chances in November. But it seems to me to be an accurate portrayal of the situation.

tion of the critical issues of our times."

This was the main show, but it wasn't the main attraction, interest centered on the side shows.

In one of these a half dozen or more potential Vice Presidential candidates lined up in the hope of a nod from the White House if Douglas decides he isn't interested.

Fight Over Platform

Southerners who don't like Mr. Truman's program for racial equality stood toe to toe with those who do. Both sides were ready to slug it out over a platform plank unlikely to be wholly satisfactory to either.

The Vice Presidential situation was in a characteristic mess. The late President Roosevelt cut the knot of a similar tieup four years ago with a letter saying that the then Senator Truman or Douglas would be acceptable to him.

Mr. Truman got it then and Douglas was hardly mentioned.

In what was read here as a low bow to the New Deal wing of the party, Mr. Truman was reported to have asked Douglas to make it a twosome.

Douglas didn't say yes and he didn't say no. Democratic Chairman McGrath reported at an early hour he had no word.

The party's New Dealers, headed by Chester Bowles, Paul Porter, Leon Henderson—and reported to be sparkplugged by Security Administrator Oscar Ewing—were urging Douglas to jump in the race.

Turn To Douglas

The New Deal organization, Americans for Democratic Action, previously had been booming Douglas for the top spot on the ticket. But ADA gave up on that last night.

Henderson, as national chairman, got out a statement saying it was being "widely reported" that Mr. Truman wanted the justice as his running mate and adding the hope that Douglas "will make himself available for that position."

Henderson said further that Douglas wanted the Presidential boom stopped and "we will accede to his wishes."

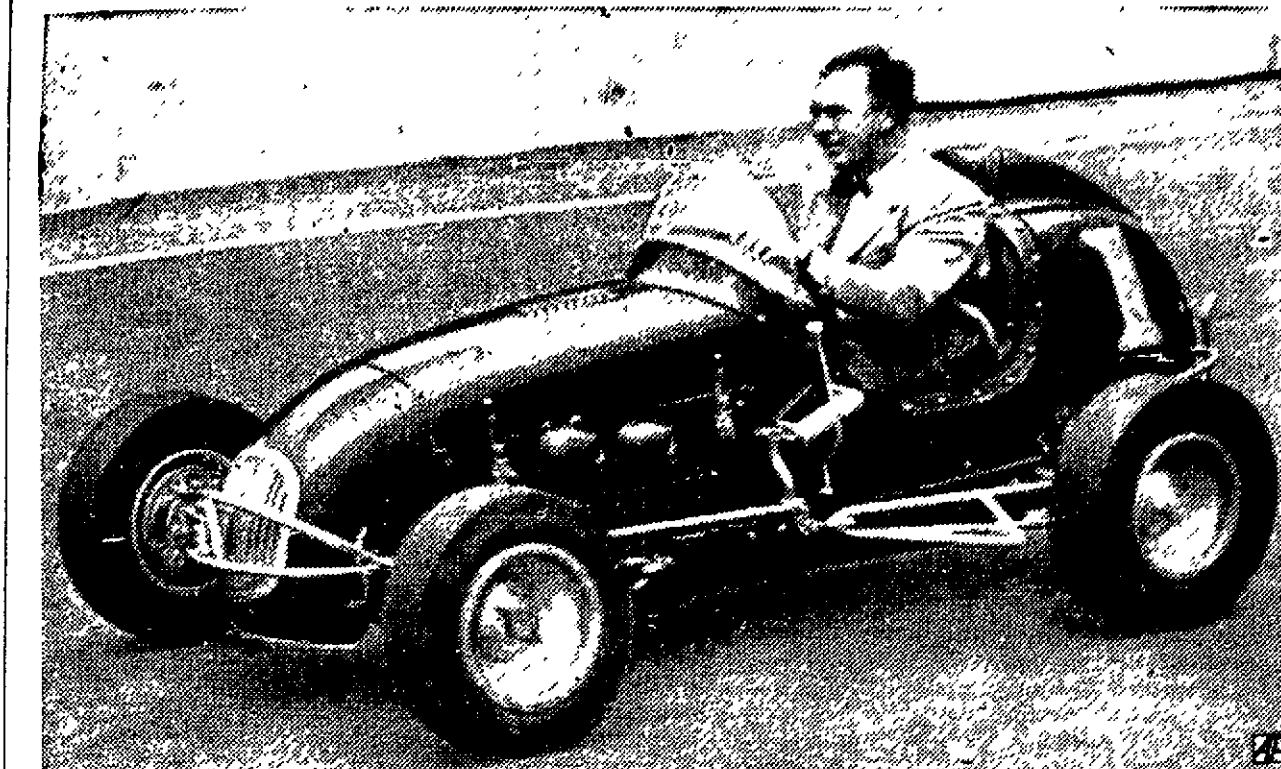

A Douglas decision to run with Mr. Truman probably would involve his resigning from the Supreme Court bench. On the other hand, the argument was said to have been made to him that even if the ticket is beaten in November, he will be the strong man of the Democratic party to lead it through at least four years of Republican rule.

Await Barkley Blast
That was exactly what some southern Democrats, and others who think like them on economic and other matters, were afraid of.

So they said they are ready to fight a battle which looks far less hopeless to them than their last-ditch protest votes for Laney against Mr. Truman's own nomination.

Barkley has his chance to shine before the delegates tonight with a keynote address in which the old warrior is expected to let fly at the Republican party from every angle.

If Douglas doesn't choose to run—and some of the administration people said he had better make up his mind pretty quick—several besides Barkley were available for the No. 2 spot.

There was some talk in administration circles of Gov. William Preston Lane of Maryland. Lane, a convention delegate is pledged by his state organization to vote for Senator Millard Tydings for vice president.

Others Mentioned

Besides Lane and Tydings, other candidates mentioned include Senator Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who has a strong western support; Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, Senator Brian McMahon of Connecticut, Senator Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, Gov. Mon Wallgren of Washington and Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts.

There was some thought that Mr. Truman might up Roosevelt's 1944 ante by giving the convention a list of several names from which to choose.

Southerners indicated they would be satisfied with Barkley or Tydings and wouldn't object to Lucas.

Civil Rights Battle

But they were still stewing about the Civil Rights issue and parading their general opposition to Mr. Truman.

Lucas, one of a small committee which burned the after-midnight which burned the after-midnight bulbs in search of a first draft of the platform tentatively scheduled to go before the convention tomorrow, predicted a compromise on the Civil Rights issue.

He said he thinks the generalized 1944 party call for race equality will be rewritten.

"I don't suppose it will be satisfactory to either side, but if we can't settle it any other way I'm in favor of letting the convention vote it up or down," he told a reporter.

Laney said after a southern caucus yesterday that some of the southerners may take a walk after Mr. Truman is nominated. Others talked of holding their own convention in Birmingham later.

But the southerners agreed that Mr. Truman is a walk-in for the nomination.

VICE PRESIDENT
TIMBER BEING VIEWED TODAY

By MARTIN BRACKBILL

Philadelphia, July 12 (AP) — Pennsylvania Democratic delegates, virtually united behind President Truman, began sizing up the convention's vice presidential timber today.

Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Democratic national committeeman and key convention figure, said Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky would make a good running mate for Mr. Truman.

"If you are looking for a liberal, Senator Barkley went down the line for the new deal and he is from the south," Lawrence told newsmen. He added the only thing mentioned against him is age and that should not count.

Rice Mentions Marshall
Delegation chairman John S. Rice, on the other hand, has mentioned Secretary of State Marshall for vice president. He added, however, he did not know if Marshall would be available.

"He's a native son of Pennsylvania and would strengthen the ticket," Rice said.

Other delegates said they have heard the names of Senators Scott Lucas of Illinois and Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming mentioned but that sentiment so far has not crystallized for anyone.

Anti-Truman sentiment faded in the delegation yesterday with only a few of 82 delegates still reported looking for a candidate other than the president. The Keystone group has 74 votes with each of the 16 delegates-at-large entitled to a half vote.

So far no official poll has been taken of the delegation. But even former opponents admitted the vote will be almost solid for Mr. Truman when Chairman Rice calls a caucus after the convention sessions start.

Reception Today
Rice said he hopes to call the delegation together immediately after the opening session if time permits.

"There is a reception for the Pennsylvania delegation by the Philadelphia city committee set for 3 p.m. (EST) and if the session runs too long, we may not be able to work it in," Rice added.

"You can't beat somebody with nobody," commented Richard F. Hartzell, Sr., of Lock Haven, one of the leaders of the minority in the delegation previously objecting to the endorsement of Mr. Truman. Hartzell originally was a supporter of General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Light Badges For Convention Ladies

Philadelphia, July 12 (AP) — Anything for the ladies note: Official badges of women delegates to this year's Democratic national convention are fashioned of light-weight aluminum.

"Women have been complaining about the old, heavy badges for years," said Neale Roach, managing director of the convention. "They said they tore holes in their flimsy clothes and dragged them down. So this year we managed to fix that up."

As for the men, the convention arrangers stuck to the traditional metals.

"Heavy as lead," said Roach, "but the men seem to like them."

Battle Paralysis
In North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C., July 12 (AP) — North Carolinians, fearful of the mounting incidence of infantile paralysis, have been assured that "everything humanly possible" is being done to meet the emergency.

The outbreak of the dread disease is being met "with the most concerted attack" in the state's history. Philip S. Randolph declared last night.

Randolph, state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, warned against hysteria which he said has "mushroomed up throughout the state."

He explained his reference to hysteria by saying that some communities are undertaking projects with no regard for their real worth. The polio outbreak, through Saturday, had brought reports of 485 cases to the state board of health.

U.S. Steel Workers
To Get Pay Raise
Pittsburgh, July 12 (AP) — A spokesman for the U. S. Steel corporation says that company will increase wages for its 170,000 workers "in view of a continuing climb in the cost of living."

The spokesman, who asked that his name not be disclosed, said the increase will be announced this week. "The corporation is under no obligation to increase wages," he said, but feels "the workers should be protected" because of the cost of living.

Philip Murray's United Steelworkers union, a CIO affiliate which represents U. S. Steel workers, earlier had sought a pay boost, but the corporation rejected the bid on the ground it was seeking to halt an inflationary spiral.

The union is working under the second year of a two-year contract and under the terms of the pact wage negotiations were reopened last April.

Chapter 25

"Jackson," and J. D. put her hand on mine. "There's someone outside there, trying to attract your attention."

Both Raniel and I looked around. While both of us were looking, J. D. pushed a key into my hand, the key to her car. I knew what she wanted.

"Oh, him," I said. "Excuse me a minute, you two, I'll see what he wants and come back," and I got up quickly and left.

Outside, I got into J. D.'s car and started it. Away I boiled, within two ticks of J. D. Thatcher speed, for Ealing's. I had to get there and do my talking quick, before Raniel got out from under the ether, because he or Willie or both would be out to do tricks.

Nobody answered the door of that big, ugly yellow house when I rang. I tried the door and it was locked. Just as I rang again, Diane Ealing opened. She was wearing a hat and a tailored suit.

"I want to see Mrs. Pettigrew," I said.

"She's not here," said Diane Ealing.

I looked at her sharply. "Didn't she come back from wherever you sent her this morning?"

"I sent her out again."

"Tell me, did your husband have any more derringers besides the one that was found in his hand and the one he'd given you?"

"I can't be sure."

Somebody had come through the hall to the parlor door and called my name. I turned. It was Pettigrew.

"I been hoping you'd come around," he said.

"Hoping? Why?"

"Something the police should see and find out about," said Pettigrew.

"All right," I said, "lead me to it."

I followed him into the front yard and around to the side of the house. There was a side door, set flush with the ground, as if it might lead to steps going down into the basement. Pettigrew led the way to it, then stopped and tapped the wooden jamb with the forefinger of his unbanded hand.

"Bullet hole," he said.

"Yes?" I came and looked, too.

The jamb showed a round mark at shoulder height, the size and shape of the one I'd seen three hours before, right in the middle of Bensinger's forehead. It didn't go in very far, no more than half an inch. I put my face close and peered. "This isn't a new hole," I said. "There's been weather on it—a couple of weeks, maybe."

"About a month," said Pettigrew, as if he knew enough to correct me. "I didn't notice until today—I saw there was a little plug of putty there, about the color of the brown paint. I jiggled it and out it came. Here." He showed me a bullet-shaped wad of putty.

From my pocket I took the cartridge I had unloaded from Diane Ealing's derringer. Carefully I poked its nose into the hole. It fitted exactly.

I went quickly back into the house.

Chapter 26
We drove downtown and to the station. I escorted her in and up to the laboratory. There sat Holmgren, at his table, studying a loose-leaf notebook.

"Maybe some of these gun houses in the big cities can tell us who bought a pair of derringers lately," he said to me. "How do you do, Mrs. Ealing, what can I do for you?"

"She's here to do something for us," I said. "What about the death gun in this Ealing case? Not the latest shooting. I mean the one found in Ealing's hand."

"With the prosecutor. Probably locked up safely in his office."

"Think hard, Holmgren. When you and I first got acquainted, it was over that very gun, and you mentioned a backsplit from its firing."

He nodded. "That's right. There was a streak of powder fouling and a slight burn on Ealing's gun hand, right between the thumb and forefinger, in line with the eruption of the powder backward from the defective breech. When I fired it for a test bullet, I got the same fouling and burn on my hand."

"The point is," I said, "the gun Ealing was holding belonged to his wife. And the gun that matched it, the one that Ealing kept for himself in his gun room, was left to replace Mrs. Ealing's own gun."

"In my bureau drawer upstairs," she added. "And I can't think why the switch was made, and I doubt if anybody can make me understand why."

"Who knew where you kept that gun, Diane?" I asked.

"Dick did," she replied. "Nobody else."

"Wait," I said quickly. "Mrs. Pettigrew is your housekeeper. Wouldn't she know?"

"Oh yes, Mrs. Pettigrew might know. But she'd hardly dare meddle with it. She left my personal things strictly alone."

"Now, what other possibilities are there?" I asked.

Diane Ealing turned as red as an Arizona sunset and shook her head. "Most certainly not."

"Pettigrew?"

"Hardly. He never even went upstairs in the house."

"Well, Dr. Stokes?"

"He was Dick's confidential friend, not mine. He couldn't have had any access to the gun."

"Thank you for that, Diane," said a voice from the door, and in walked Dr. Stokes. "Sooner or later, I'll get off the list of suspects, and somebody who really belongs on it will take my place." He nodded at me. "Jim Kuhl made a fool out of you and me both. Well, it didn't last many hours, and I'm back at being generous. I'll settle for written apologies all around, from you and Holmgren here and the homicide detail."

"You're going to sue Jim," said Diane Ealing. She didn't ask it, she said it.

"I think I will, yes," he said grinning. "After he's through being tried for obstructing justice and disbarred from legal practice and so on. Don't glower at me, Diane. You can hardly blame me, can you?"

She turned away from him and Holmgren spoke up mildly from where he sat. "What do you want here, Doctor, besides a written apology?"

"To hear what's being found out about my servant's murderer."

"Nothing as yet," said Holmgren, and Dr. Stokes sneered. His glasses came around to confront me. "Yates, I haven't any particular cause to

14 ACCIDENTAL
DEATHS IN PA.

(By The Associated Press)

Four persons drowned and 10 others were killed in highway crashes and other mishaps in Pennsylvania over the weekend.

Those killed were: Andrew Frve, 32, and his brother, Charles, 12, both of Altoona, burned to death when fire destroyed their gasoline truck on route 220 between Altoona and Tyrone.

John Krukowski, 56, Nanticoke, a miner, was killed in a coal fall; Michael Grout, 40, Nanticoke, also a miner, was killed when the motor he was operating jumped a track and struck some timber which fell on him in the No. 7 colliery of the Susquehanna Coal company; Theodore Bordihn, 43, Norwood, burned to death while working in a garage near Glenolden. He was working on a power lawn mower when a spark ignited gasoline and flames spread to his clothing.

John Muldoon, Jr., four, Pittsburgh, was crushed to death by an auto while near his home; Ralph E. Wolfe, 27, Steelton, was killed in the crash of a jeep on the concrete about him. Last night he seems to have come down on a visit to them.

"To which newspaper?"

"Every daily in town. Three. He was looking through their back files for something years ago—the articles on the death of Ealing's uncle, Gwynne Ealing, who left him all the dough four years back."
